Dear Clark:

We received both your letters. They came as a little surprise, then again not such a big one. I guess any one who has ever been mixed up in the baseball, never divorces himself completely from it. I had heard some rumors before that Gus was thinking of coming back, but of course you don't put too much stock in rumors. However coming from you I am sure it is real. I cant understand any one who was ever mixed up in this league, getting out, and wanting to come back. Maybe you people see something that I dont. I hope you are right, because after all I ammin it and wouldn't mind making some money.

I feel very shaky about the night ball. I am very much afraid that with the country at war we will not be able to have the lights burning without night ball our baseball will have a tough road to travel.

I wish I could see you and Gus and talk to you. It is very hard to ask all the questions I want to in a letter. First of all, will you have a home grounds? Where do you plan to get players? Gus gave a lotto the baseball and if it can give him anything back, I would like to see him get it. However I would not want to see him make another mistake.

Do you plan to come east to the fight, If so maybe you could come a day or so ahead and stop in Newark and talk to us. Notice our new address the name of the street particularly.

We will be glad to hear from you again soon. In your articles in The Courier try and do some good along with your frankness. Remember many of our readers do not know the inside story, and they might not understand your candidness.

1941 is about to leave us, so let me wish you the very best for 1942.

Very Truly Yours
